CHIEFTAIN 1973

Hillsboro School
Williamson County
Tennessee

We Are the Many.

Sad or happy, thoughtful or exuberant, talking or fighting, working or playing, we make up the one Hillsboro. We are teachers and students, seniors and kindergarten, black and white, working together for one common cause---a better world.

Each of us in his own special way is working toward the attainment of his own "inalienable rights". We want the right to decide our own way of life, and we want the freedoms of choice, speech, and religion. And to make sure that we can continue in our pursuit of happiness, we want to choose our leaders with care and thoughtfulness, on a school level as well as on a national level.

But while each of us is doing his own thing and going his own way, we cannot afford to forget that, not only as Hillsboro but also in our nation, we must all strive together for the one thing which will assure equality and freedom for all---a brotherhood of peace.

Life
Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness

A Man of the People

Many people have the traits of friendliness, versatility, and dependability, but only a few can successfully combine these qualities with a streak of stubbornness and a sense of humor. And because Mr. Donald Wayne Calvert is just such a person, we proudly dedicate the 1973 CHIEFTAIN to him.

Whether singing a country tune that never made the top ten, or reciting verses which he claims won a prize for him in school, Mr. Calvert can always be found in the middle of things. He participates wholeheartedly in such Hillsboro activities as Twirp Week, pep rallies, and ballgames. Yet he can be all seriousness when he is teaching his industrial arts classes or enforcing his no-chewing-gum rule. Even while frustrating us, making us laugh, or paddling us, Mr. Calvert always has our respect. He is truly a man of the people at Hillsboro.

GARY W. YORK

1973 marks the second year that Mr. Gary York has been principal of Hillsboro School. Being principal of a school which incorporates all twelve grades plus a kindergarten is no easy job. But Mr. York always manages to keep ahead of whatever situation arises.

Hillsboro has seen many improvements under the leadership of Mr. York. Physical improvements have been a trampoline for the gym classes, two portable classrooms for the overflow of students in the lower grades, and a brand-new library. Two organizations, a student council and a faculty advisory committee, have improved administration-faculty-student relationships.

All in all, 1972-73 has been a good school year for Hillsboro School. And the CHIEFTAIN Staff would like to thank Mr. York for his concern for Hillsboro and to wish him much continued success.

Class Prophecy of 1973

While sitting in my rocking chair on the porch of my lunar bubble one bright, moony morning, I began to wonder about the fates of the members of the senior class of 1973. My curiosity getting the better of me, I arose from my chair and ventured to the nearby space station. There I rented a spaceshuttle to return to Earth so I could renew old friendships with my former schoolmates.

I first visited Los Angeles, California, where I was surprised to learn that Vicky Stinson had now become president of U.C.L.A. But an even bigger surprise awaited me as I walked across campus to visit Vicky and her fourteen children. A sudden burst of hard-rock sound drew me to a large group of people. You can imagine my surprise when I looked at the platform and saw Randy Fox, shaggy hair and all, gyrating and shouting into the microphone. But, wait! That's not all! Kathy Jennette completed her drum solo as I stood there, and she waved to me as she stood up to take a bow.

After completing my visit at U.C.L.A., I went to a local post office to mail a postcard back to my family on the moon. As I dropped the card into the mail slot, I was attracted by three familiar faces. I looked more closely, and, sure enough, there were David Baker, Ricky Davis, and Steve Bennett. Or rather, there were their pictures on the "Most Wanted" list. Their last known whereabouts was listed as Acapulco, and knowing those three, I was sure they were having a grand old time.

Continuing my journey, I flew to the Lone Star State, where I decided to take in an old-fashioned rodeo. Those two bronco riders sure looked familiar. Why, look at that, Tandy Harris and Dwight Anglin, the greenhorns of Hillsboro, had now become real-life cowpokes. As I glanced over the arena, I also recognized Judy Chumley and Glenda Clark. They were masquerading as clowns and diverting the attention of a wild Brahma bull from an injured rider. Good luck, girls!

All that rodeo dust made me thirsty, so I decided to go into Texas' biggest saloon and quench my thirst. I stepped up to the bar, and, as weird as it may seem, there stood Chris Grissom, the head bartender. It seems that there were more familiar faces in the saloon. Wayne Nugent, Chris' best customer, was raking in a pile of poker chips. He had just bluffed down his former classmate, David Goodgine, with a pair of threes.

Going on with my trip, I went to the Ozarks. More than a little surprised, I saw that Debby Griggs and Garry Beard had gone into partnership in a huge phosphate mining company. It seems that phosphate had been legalized. Rickey and Lester Kennedy, who were formerly the cut-ups of the class, were now cut-outs of the soil as they drove the big digging machines.

I now traveled into my former homeland, Tennessee. Memphis was my first stop. David Morris, now editor of the NASHVILLE BANNER, was preparing to sail his yacht down the Mississippi. Gale Stinson and Linda Davis, two girls with style, were David's personal secretaries and were going to accompany him on the trip.

I moved on to Franklin, and when I arrived, I received a personal handshake from the mayor, Joe Raines. After some brief reminiscing, Joe guided me to Franklin's most glorious nightspot. Shelia Walls had become the proud owner a couple of years back. Sue Osborne, Wanda Rader, and Jane Ragsdale were the beautiful belly dancers. Wow! Did they put on a show!

I slipped out the back door and continued my journey with only one aim---to get to Hillsboro. On the way to my destination, I passed the houses where Pat Smith and Juanita Harris now lived. I found out later that they were happily married to two rather successful businessmen.

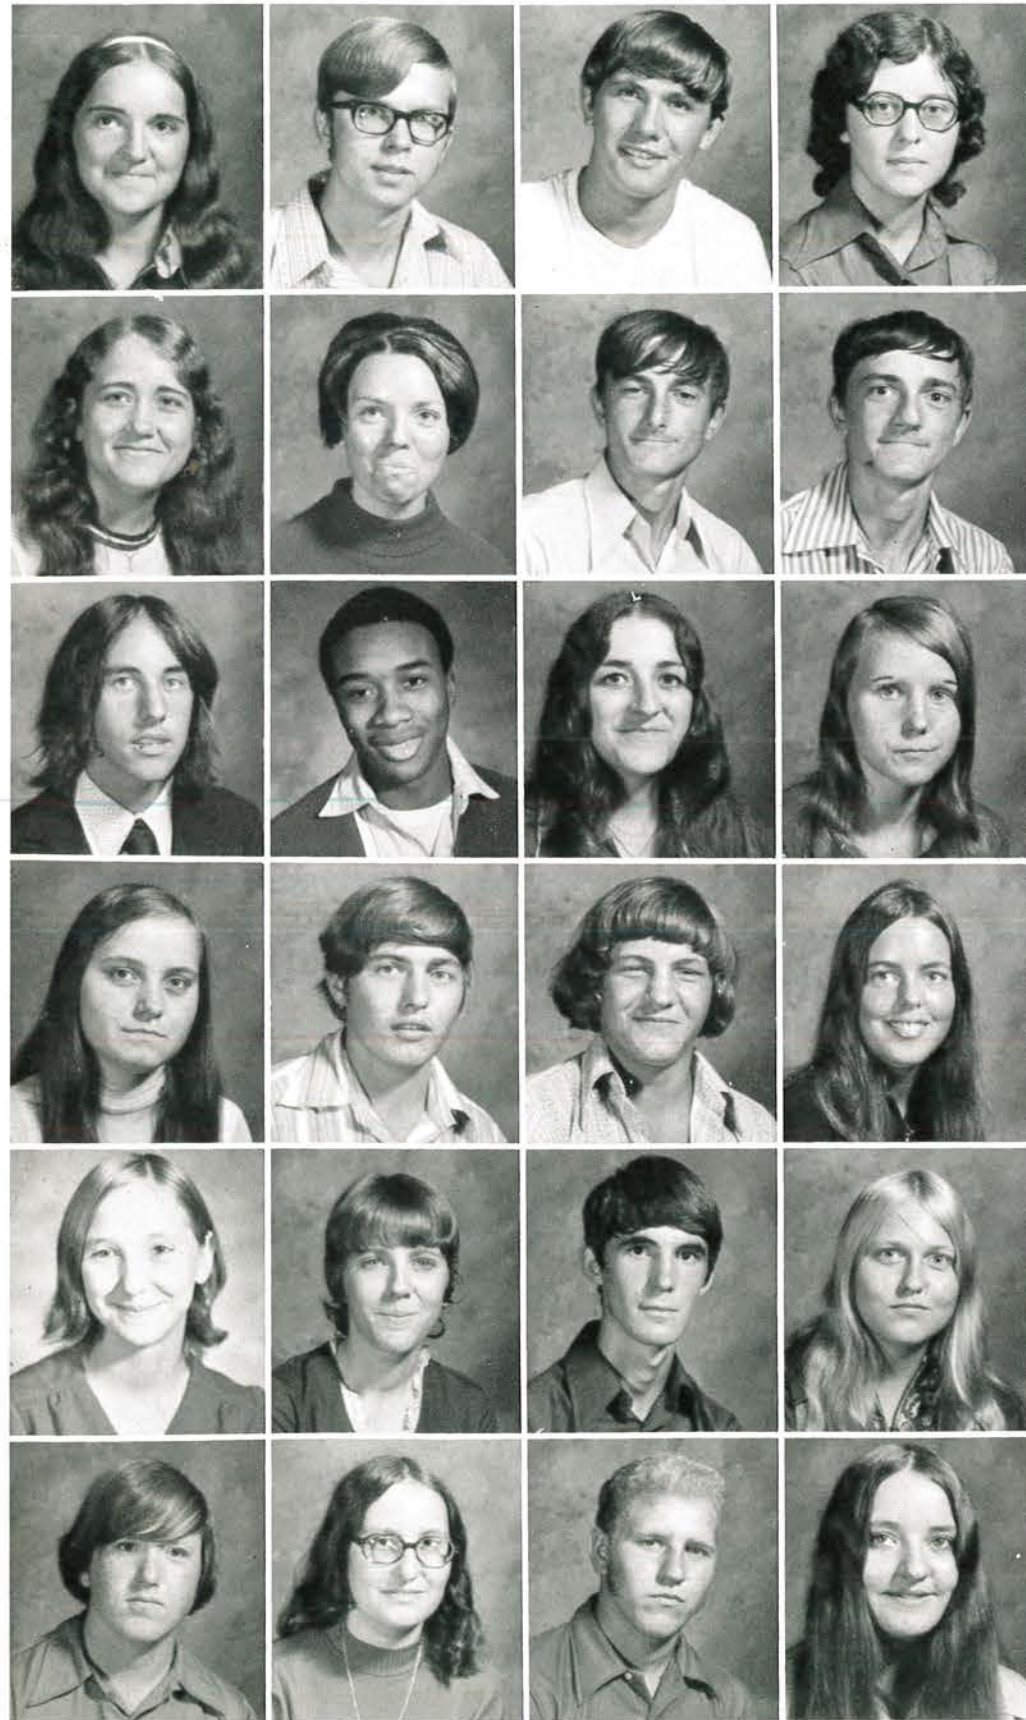

When I finally arrived at Hillsboro, I visited all my old haunts, saving the best for the last---the grocery store. Randall Kelley, long-time laborer at Puckett's, was now sole proprietor of a large chain of stores, the headquarters for which was in Hillsboro. Randall had such a large operation that he had hired several of his former schoolmates to run his stores all over the country. Gary Huffman was the headman in the Detroit chain and doing a fine job, Randall said.

It was getting late, and I began to wonder where I would go next. Then I suddenly realized that I had exhausted the list of my 1973 classmates. Now this seemed to me to be a good time to head back home, so I did.

What I learned about my friends will give me a lot of things to mull over as I sit in this rocking chair watching the Earth rise and set. Everyone of my friends was happy in what he or she was doing. And isn't that what counts?

FAVORITES

To be selected by the student body to receive the titles of Mr. and Miss Hillsboro is an honor reserved for a young man and a young lady of the senior class. Mr. and Miss Hillsboro for 1972-73 are Tandy Harris and Juanita Harris.

Winning a joint title is nothing new to Tandy and Juanita. For the past four years, they have been chosen as the boy and girl in their classes who have the Best School Spirit. Congratulations, Juanita and Tandy.

Mr. and Miss Hillsboro

1972 Christmas Queen Her Court

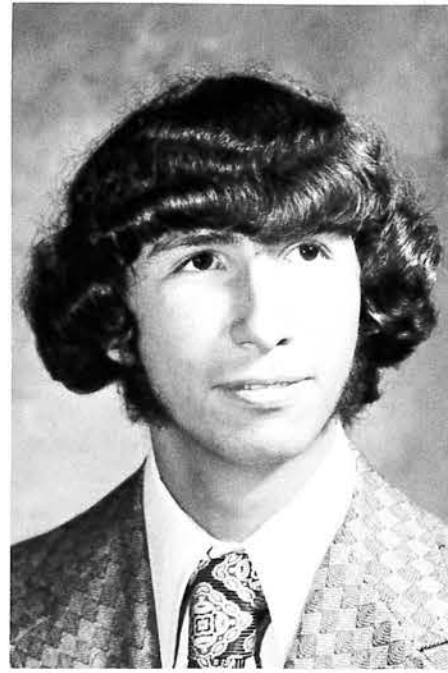

Each year, the students at Hillsboro choose one girl from the senior class to represent our school in the Franklin Christmas Parade. Then each class, grades seven through twelve, chooses an attendant to ride with the queen on our school float. This year's Christmas Queen was Miss Kathy Jennette.

Valedictorian

David Goodgine is the valedictorian of the 1973 senior class with an average of 3.89. Besides keeping up with his academic work, David is also active in athletics. He is manager of the varsity basketball team, and a player on the B team. An active member of the journalism class, David is copy editor on the CHIEFTAIN staff.

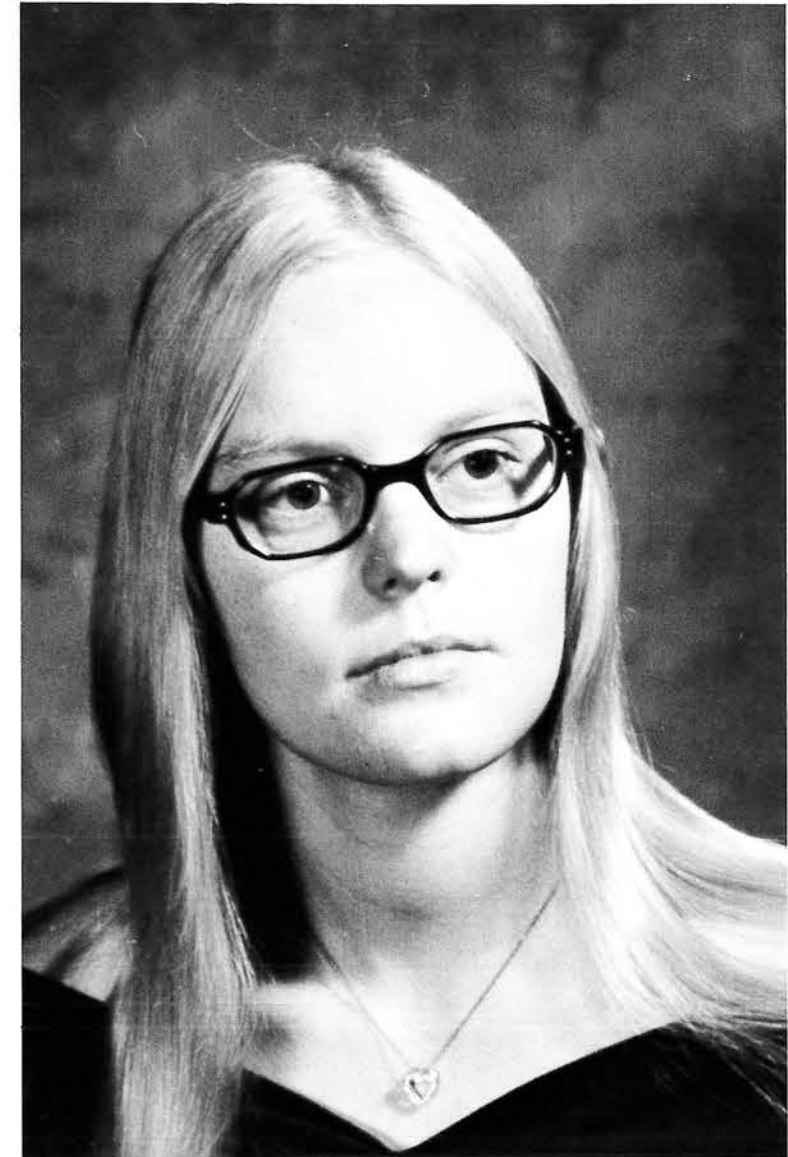

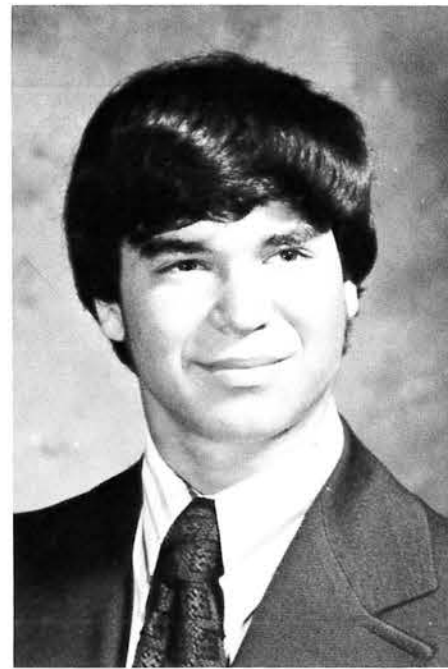

Salutatorian

Debby Griggs is a young lady who believes in individuality. Although she maintains a 3.81 average and is a library worker, Debby's main interest is not school. She likes rock music, especially Three Dog Night, and feels that her purpose in life is just being herself and trying to make the world a better place.

Salutatorian

Wayne Nugent, sometimes called "Half-Pint" by his friends, may be short in stature, but he is long on energy. Wayne is now president of the Beta Club and maintains a 3.78 average. He runs the concession stand for all of Hillsboro's home games and also runs a paper route for the NASHVILLE BANNER.

Each year a young lady from the senior class is selected by the faculty to receive the Daughters of the American Revolution Citizenship Award. It is quite an honor to be the recipient of this award. This year, the award goes to Patricia Smith Anderson.

Pat Anderson is involved in several activities at Hillsboro. She is president of the senior class, a member of the Student Council, a member of the 4-H Club, a member of F.H.A., and a library worker. She is also business manager on the CHIEFTAIN staff. Pat is interested in bookkeeping and maintains a high grade average in all of her studies. Besides her school work and activities, Pat also takes care of her own home now, and is very interested in having a successful marriage.

Junior High Boys Team

While Hillsboro's Junior High Boys Team has not been too successful this year as far as wins are concerned, they have gained much experience. The team's defensive plays have improved, and with a few more years of experience, they should be the basis for a strong varsity team. Captain and Co-Captain of the team are Tandy Sullivan and Mitchell Crafton.

Junior High Girls Team

This year has been a lot of fun for the Hillsboro Junior High Girls Team. They have enjoyed playing basketball for Coach Gamble. They would like to thank everyone of their supporters for coming to their games and cheering them on.

They feel that they have learned a lot this year while truly enjoying the game basketball. They hope that you will continue to support their team. Captains of the team are Rita Davis and Sherry Rainey.

Our varsity boys team hasn't had the successful season that they have had in past years. Lack of size and experience was a major fault for Hillsboro, but steady hard work and practice have paid off well for them. Nobody took our team lightly, because they knew the Indians had the potential to beat any team.

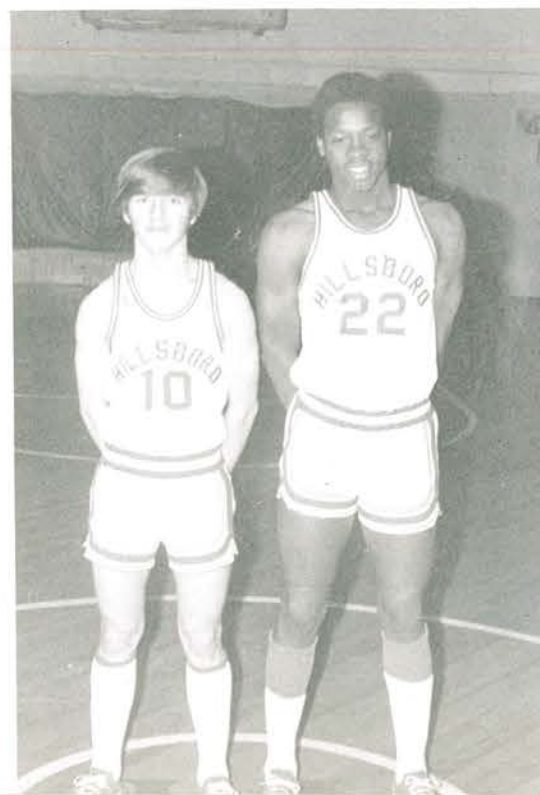

We are proud to say that we have the leading scorer in the state in Michael "Buster" Robinson, who has a 33.3 point average. Mike has been named to the All-Midstate Team and hopes to be on the All-State Team. He has plenty of help from his fellow team members, among them the only senior, Tandy Harris.

"Since we only lost two boys this last year, the added experience should help our team represent Hillsboro well in the district next year. We had one of the best freshman teams ever this past year, and if leadership can be found from upcoming seniors, we should have no trouble at all," says Coach Wilson.

The varsity girls basketball team has progressed well despite the fact that they're young and small in size.

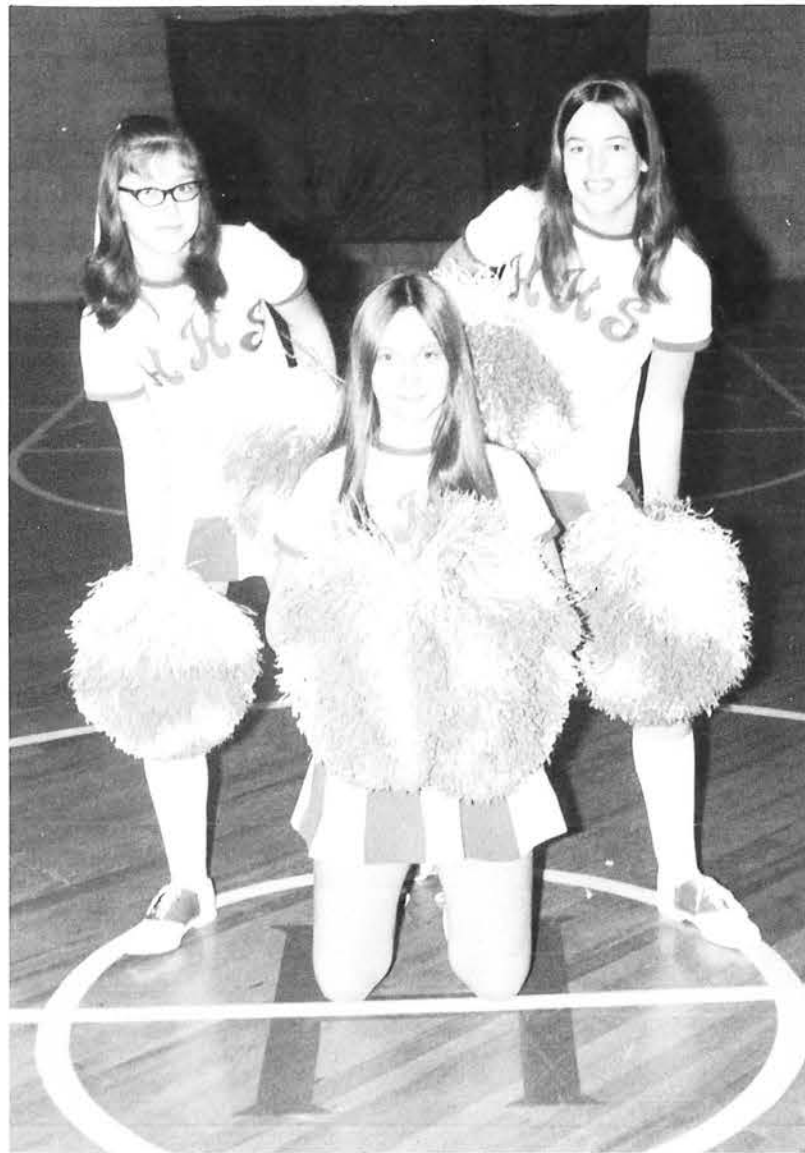

From the running of laps, exercises, and drills, the girls have become more alert. And the team has come to have a spirit of togetherness.

Coach Gamble says, "Our team has a great desire to win, and they know this will come with hard work and dedication. The future of the Hillsboro girls basketball team looks very good now. Everyone will or should be back next year."
